

Throughout this year, the Early Careers Forum are hosting a series of virtual lunchtime sessions to explore the INCOSE Handbook – with an in-person finale in December!

Each month, a section of the handbook will be in the spotlight for an hour lunchtime slot. With a panel of experts on the topic; an overview of the technical detail and a chance to hear about the Systems Engineering in context.

Ideal if you are studying for your ASEP exam, which is based on the handbook, and a brilliant opportunity to network and learn more about systems engineering regardless!

More details on the finale event will follow; expect an interactive challenge working with other systems engineers in a competition format.

Second session:

Wednesday 27th April, 12:15-13:15 – ‘Lost in Technical Processes’

Topics to be covered in this session are based on chapter 4 of the INCOSE Handbook and include:

- Business Mission Analysis
- Stakeholder Needs and Requirements
- Architecture Definition Process
- And many more!

With an expert panel to discuss these topics, as well as Q&A!

Sign up through the INCOSE UK Calendar event on the INCOSE UK website – whether you are a member of INCOSE UK or not! If you are having any difficulties, then please email ecf-chair@incoseuk.org.